Instructions for Filing a Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus

These instructions explain the steps to request a Writ of Habeas Corpus and an Order Returning a Child. These instructions are for the Petitioner—the person who opens the case and files the petition.

WARNING! These instructions provide general information, not legal advice. It's a good idea to talk with a lawyer about your particular situation.

Checklist Steps

☐ Step 1: Complete your court forms and attach the exhibits.

- Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus: This form is filed by the Petitioner (the person filing the case) and tells the judge why you have a superior right of possession to the child. It also asks the judge to issue a Writ of Habeas Corpus, ordering the Respondent to bring the child to court for a hearing.

To fill out section “3. Court Order for Conservatorship of the Child(ren),” you must first determine whether a court has ever issued an order for possession regarding the child that you want returned to you.

- If there is a court order for possession, and you are claiming a superior right of possession because of that order, select option (1) and attach a certified copy of the order to your petition.
- If there is no court order, only a legal parent can file the petition against a nonparent. If you are a legal parent, select option (2) and attach proof that you are the legal parent of the child.

Tip: Because court orders can be long and complicated, it is a good idea to highlight or mark the sections that explain who has the superior right of possession to the child so that the judge can review it more easily.

Who is the Respondent? The Respondent is the person who is holding the child illegally, either because:

- A court order says you have a superior right of possession, or
- You are a parent of the child, the Respondent is not a parent, and there is no court order.

Tip: It is very important that the Respondent's legal name and address you list on the Petition is correct! If the Respondent cannot be served, he or she will not know to bring the children to court for the next hearing.

- Order for Issuance of Writ of Habeas Corpus: You do not know if the judge will issue the Writ of Habeas Corpus; however, it is good practice to fill out the Order for Issuance of Writ of Habeas Corpus and present it to the judge with your Petition. If the order is granted, the judge will sign it and the judge or the clerk will fill out the portion that says the date, time, and place of the next hearing.

☐ Step 2: File forms and present to judge for ex parte review.

Contact your clerk's office for information on how to do this. Your county may require a certain judge to review your paperwork, or you may be able to take your paperwork to the "duty judge" who is available anytime. The judge will review your petition and any exhibits ex parte (meaning, you will not be present).

If the judge grants your request to issue the writ of habeas corpus, the clerk should prepare the paperwork for you and make arrangements for the writ to be served on the Respondent.

Make sure to review the Order Granting Writ of Habeas Corpus after it is completed by the judge so that you know when the next hearing is set for. Mark the hearing in your calendar and make sure you have reliable transportation to the courthouse.

☐ Step 3: Prepare for your hearing.

The focus of the habeas corpus hearing is very narrow: it is limited to who has a superior right of possession of the child.

Only in limited circumstances—such as where the Respondent has alleged that there is a serious immediate question concerning the child's welfare or where the Petitioner has relinquished care of the child for at least six months—should additional evidence regarding the wellbeing of the child be presented.

The Respondent has the right to file a written response to your Petition. They must file the response before the hearing, and you should receive a copy of it. The response explains why the Respondent thinks the judge should not give you the child back. If the Respondent files a Response, review it carefully to know what the Respondent will try to argue in court. (See the "common questions" section for more information on what a Respondent may claim.)

Prepare any evidence that you think you need to present. If you plan to testify, practice what you want to say.

Prepare your Order Granting Return of Child(ren).

Prepare your proposed Order Granting or Denying Return of Child. You can fill in the information you know, such as the case number, court, names of parties, and names and birthdays of the children. When you attend court, be ready to write down what the judge says because you may be expected to fill out the rest of the order. It is a good idea to bring an extra copy of the order if the judge wants to look at it.

□ Step 4: Attend the hearing.

At the hearing, both you and the Respondent will have an opportunity to explain what you want and present any evidence that supports your position.

Attend this hearing! If you do not, the judge may not be able or willing to return the child to you.

If the court finds that the petitioner has the superior right of possession, the court MUST grant the return of the child to the petitioner in the following circumstances:

- 1) The Petitioner has the superior right of possession under a court order and
 - The petitioner had not relinquished possession of the child for at least six months before the case was filed, and
 - There is no serious, immediate question concerning the child's welfare
- 2) The Petitioner has the superior right of possession by law as a parent and
 - The Respondent is not a parent of the child, and
 - No SAPCR is pending, and
 - The petitioner had not relinquished possession of the child for at least six months before the case was filed, and
 - There is no serious, immediate question concerning the child's welfare

The court has discretion (meaning the judge can decide to return the child to the petitioner or not return the child) in the following circumstances, even if the petitioner has the superior right of possession:

1. The petitioner relinquished possession of the child for at least six months before the case was filed, or
2. There is a serious immediate question concerning the child's welfare, or
3. A SAPCR is pending, and the parties have already been given notice that a hearing on temporary orders is set for the same time as the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus.

Note: If a SAPCR is already pending, talk to a lawyer before using this kit.
